FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

InMotion Global Again Selected as Inbound Logistics Top 100 Logistics IT Provider

Patent-pending technology keeps software leader at the forefront of TMS revolution

Saint Petersburg, FL – May 1, 2012

InMotion Global, Inc. and its patent-pending technology, InMotion Global TMS® are in the spotlight again. Inbound Logistics has named the software development company, which specializes in transportation management system technologies, as a top 100 Logistics IT Provider for 2012. As part of the Interstate Logistics Group family of companies, InMotion Global has continued to receive nationwide recognition for its software innovations and leadership in the development of logistics solutions.

InMotion Global TMS® (IMG) is a web-based, fully hosted Transportation Management System (TMS). IMG allows companies to manage every aspect of their logistics functions while providing complete visibility, which is imperative when changing demands call for immediate decisions and adaptation. IMG users merely sign in via the internet from any web-enabled device and are able to control the entire system, from load inception through final delivery and invoicing.

“We are so pleased to be recognized by Inbound Logistics again this year,” said Tim Higham, President and CEO of InMotion Global. “Over the past couple of years, our development team has implemented the most complex and far-reaching changes our system has undergone since its creation. Many of the design enhancements are based on suggestions brought to us by our customers who use the system every day. Our customers are the best in the industry and they always give us great ideas about how our software can meet their needs while remaining easy-to-use. Making the complex simple is our focus and we couldn’t be more proud of our TMS. Filing for the patent was simply icing on the cake. I am incredibly impressed with our development team for creating this amazing system that is dynamic and powerful while remaining user-friendly.”

Inbound Logistics selected InMotion Global for this recognition after analyzing hundreds of companies that compete for this honor each year. InMotion Global garnered the award this year based on its real-world approach to the most involved logistics complexities.
